

Attn: Military Women, Past and Present: Exploration of Traumatic Events

Hi! I am Diane Delauter, a Masters in Social Work student at Bridgewater State College in Massachusetts. I am conducting research study about military women - either active duty or veterans, who have deployed to conflicts such as Operation Enduring Freedom (OEF), Operation Iraqi Freedom (OIF), Bosnia, Somalia, the Gulf War, Vietnam, etc. Important research has been conducted on the male experience of war and combat. This study will focus on the female perspective and experiences in hopes of further validating women's roles and sacrifices in the Armed Services.

If you are a woman who is currently or has been in the military and has served in international areas of conflict/war and faced hostilities that can be called combat, I would like to invite you to take this survey. For more details, the first page of the survey will describe things fully and you are in no way compelled to take this survey if you do not feel comfortable about it.

Your participation would be completely anonymous and voluntary, greatly appreciated, and may help health and wellness professionals better serve the women like you who have done so much for their country, whether they've deployed to combat zones or not. You may also exit the survey at any time, it will take about 10 to 15 minutes to complete.

Thank you for your time and your service!
